In honor of CEO David Schimmel and his wife Debi, an anonymous, generous donor has gifted the Center $100,000 in appreciation for his years of service to the David Lawrence Center and the mental health community. The gift was made after our beloved CEO announced his impending retirement in February, which will end his 30-year career with the Center.

Schimmel joined DLC in 1984 as Assistant Director and was appointed Executive Director in 1989. He has since formed collaborative partnerships with the community and government leaders to enhance the quality of care for those in need and has invested in the facilities, technologies and staff necessary to provide those services. Under his leadership, the organization expanded from one location to seven; the staff increased from 30 to 275 employees, with an additional 200 volunteers; and the annual operating budget grew exponentially from $1 million to $17 million. As a result, David Lawrence Center touches the lives of more than 30,000 families today.

“David has provided tremendous vision and leadership in moving the Center forward to successfully expand and meet the significant growth of our community in an increasingly difficult fiscal environment,” added Pablo Veintimilla, President of the Board of Directors.

With nearly a year to transition to new leadership, a search committee chaired by Board Vice President Douglas Johnson, Ph.D. has been formed and a national search for Schimmel’s replacement has been initiated.

Naples Daily News editor Jeff Lytle touchingly stated that, “Via public education and advocacy, Schimmel helped us see the importance of a comprehensive mental-health program to our entire community’s quality of life, including public safety. His successor will inherit an organization built and nurtured by Schimmel and visionary, generous David Lawrence Center boards and foundations over the years.”

“Debi and I are very humbled by this generous gift. I may be retiring at year’s end, but we will always remain dedicated to furthering our mission.”

– DAVID SCHIMMEL, DLC CEO
Clients in the Crossroads adult residential substance abuse treatment program will now benefit from a new creative, expressive art therapy program designed to help them access their innermost selves. This is one of several program enhancements made to the Crossroads treatment services in the last year with the goal of creating the best opportunities to attain life-changing wellness. Additional alternative methods implemented include yoga, equine-facilitated psychotherapy, tobacco cessation groups, as well as enhanced aftercare and family support services.

Art therapy provides an opportunity for clients to explore feelings, fears and desires in forms other than words and to process them in a healthy way. The creative process involved in artistic self-expression helps people to resolve conflicts and problems, develop interpersonal skills, manage behavior, reduce stress, increase self-esteem and self-awareness, and achieve insight.

The registered art therapist, who is also a licensed mental health counselor, helps clients look deeper into their inner world through symbols evoked in their artwork. This process allows substance abuse treatment to address areas that otherwise may not be addressed in standard therapies. Clients find themselves able to express feelings and emotions that they may have found difficult to express in individual or group therapy.
NATIONAL VOLUNTEER WEEK

Volunteers selflessly give their time, energy and passion to our organization in many diverse ways and ask for nothing in return. They provide thousands of hours to assist us in many of our endeavors throughout our lines of business including support in the following areas: clinical, administrative, facilities, board management, advocacy, fundraising, special events and the Encore Resale Shop.

National Volunteer Appreciation Week, celebrated every April, gives us an opportunity to show our volunteers our gratitude for their commitment to our mission. Throughout the week, our volunteers were showered with token gifts of appreciation.

“We make a living by what we get, but we make a life by what we give.”

FUNDING BEHAVIORAL HEALTH SERVICES IS ONE OF THE MOST EFFECTIVE INVESTMENTS OF PUBLIC DOLLARS.
Untreated and mistreated mental illness costs the United States $105 billion in lost productivity and $8 billion in crime and welfare expenditures each year. For every $1 invested in mental health treatment, $3.68 is saved in reduced criminal activity and hospitalizations.
Did you know that if you are over the age of 70½, you may make a tax-free rollover of up to $100,000 from your individual retirement account (IRA) to a public charity?

The American Taxpayer Relief Act of 2012 (the 2012 Tax Act), Congress reinstated the ability to make direct qualified charitable distributions (QCDs) from your IRA, in amounts up to $100,000 by IRA owners who are at least age 70½ years of age. We are alerting you to this important gifting opportunity because, under current law, it is set to expire again at the end of 2013.

If you are age 70½ or above, the “IRA Charitable Rollover” provision would allow you to treat the charitable transfer as a “tax-free” withdrawal. In other words, the amount transferred to the charity via an IRA Charitable Rollover will not be included in your taxable income or taken into account in determining the availability of a charitable deduction for other charitable contributions made during the tax year in which the IRA Charitable Rollover is made. Moreover, the amount transferred to charity will be taken into account in determining whether the required minimum distribution rules (relating to distributions from qualified retirement plans) have been met.

IRA Charitable Rollover Caveats Worth Mentioning:

1. There is a very limited “window of opportunity” – The IRA Charitable Rollover provision is set to expire at the end of 2013 (again!).
2. To qualify as an IRA Charitable Rollover, all transfers must be made directly from the IRA to the charitable organization. In other words, the check must be payable directly to the charity.
3. The IRA Charitable Rollover is only available for donors aged 70½ and up.

In addition to making lifetime gifts to the charity through your IRA, there is a significant estate tax benefit to name a charity as the beneficiary of your IRA. The charity will not pay any income taxes attributable to the receipt of retirement assets while a non-charitable beneficiary will be responsible for income tax when taking distributions from the IRA. In addition, there is a charitable deduction for assets passing to charity for purposes of the estate tax.

For more information on how you might be able to make an IRA Charitable Rollover for the benefit of the David Lawrence Center & Foundation, please contact Stephen Wheeler, Chief Development Officer, at 354-1416.

David Lawrence Center will be your new “best friend” when you realize the tax benefits you receive by rolling over your IRA to the Foundation.
For more than 60 years, Americans have celebrated the observance of Mental Health Month in May as an opportunity to reach millions with a unified message about mental health awareness. This year’s theme is Pathways to Wellness, which is a call to action for Americans to identify strategies that work for themselves individually to attain better overall whole-person health and wellness.

Wellness is defined as “an active process of becoming aware of and making choices towards a more successful existence.” Wellness can be many things, but it generally includes the pursuit of complete physical, mental and social wellbeing and working towards achieving one’s full potential.

Taking good care of your body and mind can make a difference in how well you do in your day-to-day life and how well you manage change. Exercising, eating right, getting enough rest, finding ways to reduce stress and relaxing will not only set you on the right path to wellness, but also help you achieve and enjoy daily activities more and improve how you deal with life’s challenges. Caring for yourself may take a little extra time, but you will feel better and more successful.

YOUR PATHWAY TO WELLNESS CAN BE:
- Obtaining good health
- Getting routine health screenings
- Saving more money
- Laughing more
- Enjoying healthy relationships
- Being good to yourself
- Showing gratitude
- Sleeping 7-9 hours a night
- Cutting back on alcohol consumption
- Keeping good friends close
- Taking care of your community
- Eating one less cookie
- Looking for a new job
- Learning how to let go
- Walking instead of driving
- Playing with your pet
- Spending the day at the spa
- Eating fresh fruit from your own garden
- Mastering a difficult yoga pose
- Staying positive
- Connecting more with others
- Quitting smoking
- Drinking less coffee
- Writing down your problems

Volunteer’s Creativity and Ingenuity Helps Increase Sales

The Encore Resale Shop displays a wide variety of fine, gently used furniture donated from the community. Some pieces sell better and faster than others. For the ones that aren’t moving as quickly as we’d like – sometimes all it takes is a little TLC and creativity to make them sell like hot cakes.

With the ingenuity of one of our seasoned, dedicated and handy volunteers, Mark Bollinger, some of the pieces that were collecting dust have undergone transformations that are increasing sales and space on the floor – making plenty of room for your next donation.

Mark is refurbishing donated armoires and other materials into “Barmoires”. He originally took it on as a leisurely project, but has since made five in the last year – each taking about 15-hours to create. These stylish, stow-away mini bars are equipped with mirroring, lighting, a wine or glass rack, a base made of granite, marble or glass and, if space allows, can house a wine cooler. He tailors the beautiful designs to each individual armoire in a way that brings out a whole new character and appeal, which is apparent in the sales it has brought in totaling as much as $750 a piece.

Mark’s creative refurbishments have been a “fun outlet” in his mission to support mental health. You too can support mental health by visiting Encore and donating your furniture or by making a purchase. There are only two one-of-kind, handcrafted “Barmoires” left on the lot as Mark heads north for the summer, so get them while they are hot!
